Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-21, drawn to a method of applying a hypersensitive response elicitor protein to a transgenic plant or seed, classified in class 514, subclass 2, for example.
- II. Claims 22-74, drawn to a method of transforming a plant with a nucleic acid encoding a trait and with a nucleic acid encoding a hypersensitive response elicitor protein, plants so transformed and systems and DNAs for use in the method, and cells transformed with the DNAs of the system, classified in class 800, subclass 278, for example.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because:

Inventions I and II are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case, the different inventions have different modes of operation and different functions. The method of first invention and the method of the second invention have different starting products, different methods steps and different end products.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, fields of search, and classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Nucleotide sequences encoding different proteins are structurally distinct chemical compounds and are unrelated to one another, as are different proteins structurally distinct chemical compounds and are unrelated to one another. These sequences are thus deemed to normally constitute independent and distinct inventions within the meaning of 35 U.S.C. 121. Absent evidence to the contrary, each such nucleotide and protein sequence is presumed to represent an independent and distinct invention, subject to a restriction requirement pursuant to 35 U.S.C. 121 and 37 CFR 1.141 et seq (see MPEP 803.04 and 2434).

If Applicant elects Group I, Applicant is additionally required to select the species of pathogen from which the hypersensitive response elicitor is derived

If Applicant elects Group II, Applicant is additionally required to select (a) the species of pathogen from which nucleic acid encoding the hypersensitive response elicitor is derived and (b) the protein (from those listed in claim 32) encoded by the first DNA.

This requirement is not to be construed as a requirement for an election of species, since each nucleotide and amino acid sequence, and plant comprising the sequence, is not a member of single genus of invention, but constitutes an independent and patentably distinct invention.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a petition under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
